ABOUT SUGARPLUM

Sugarplum handles the most complex logistics with professionalism, support and execution unparalleled in our industry. Based in Maryland, Sugarplum serves the DC area & beyond. From the largest tents to the smallest details, you can count on Sugarplum to get it right every time. We offer a complete selection of the highest quality tents along with all the accessories. From that first phone call through the final dance (or speech!), we are with you, answering every question and handling every change. It might be your guest count or a changing weather pattern, décor option, or even venue (yes, it happened once the night before a wedding!). We are there 24/7 and guide you through the process to ensure a great event.

SAILCLOTH

The soft, creamy white of the Sailcloth Tent sets it apart from other tents —as do the natural wooden poles and the hand-stitched detailing around the edges. Sugarplum's Sailcloth Tents are unique in the industry: they are engineered for safety as well as beauty. The translucent yet strong material enhances daytime events with warm natural lighting: and at night they give off a luminous glow. All Sugarplum tents are made in the U.S. with the best hardware and fittings. The graceful and soaring lines of the Sailcloth Tents take their inspiration from the sea and the sailing ships of yesteryear—and are equally at home by the water or on lawns everywhere! They are the perfect choice for events from May through October.

GARDEN

When looking for a unique, showstopper tent, consider our Garden Tent. It is a beautiful multi-tiered tent that offers several unique features including a dual annex layout. Its distinctive construction allows you to transform your event space in an unexpected and unforgettable way! We offer our Garden Tent in Black with clear tops for a Conservatory feel, or Green with white tops for an Atrium/Greenhouse aesthetic.

CLEAR TOP

An aerial photograph of a clear tent event space. The tent is a large, rectangular structure with a white metal frame and a clear plastic covering. It is set up on a grassy area surrounded by dense green trees. The tent's interior is visible, showing a colorful patterned floor and some tables. A paved path leads to the tent, and a white building is visible in the lower right corner. The overall scene is bright and natural.

Having an event in a clear tent is a magical experience. The outdoors becomes the decor —and in the evenings, the ambiance can't be beat as the lighting reflects a kaleidoscope off of the ceiling. Clear tents are most effective in the Spring and Fall when there is landscaping/ nature around or interesting architecture and when temperatures are cool.

WHITETOP

An aerial photograph showing a large, rectangular white tent set up on a green lawn. To the left of the tent is a two-story house with a brown roof. The surrounding area is filled with lush green trees and a paved driveway. The scene is captured from a high angle, looking down on the property.

White tents are classic! They also take on the vision YOU create. The ceiling can be lined with fabric or fabric swags, or be left unadorned. Dramatic chandeliers look great as well as more subtle lighting. Even in gorgeous weather, a white tent sends a clear signal —there's something special happening here!
